New Echolink Computer Installed

Just a quick announcement that I finally installed the new Echolink computer. The initial testing was successful, but I'll need to fine tune the audio levels in the next few weeks. It's easier to do during a net where I can compare the audio of the Echolink computer with that of other people talking.

I'll update the Echolink page with Windows 11 screenshots and new pictures soon.